Preface

Staff Papers present reports on BEA research that is more specialized or less well established than BEA research generally made available to the public.

The work for this paper was financed by the Interagency Growth Study Project. The research was under the guidance of Beatrice N. Vaccara, Associate Director for National Analysis and Projections, Bureau of Economic Analysis. The computer work was carried out by Stephen Y. Winkeljohn, and the camera-ready copy was prepared by Atherine G. Payne.

INSTRUCTIONS

Approved For Release 2005/11/23 : CIA-RDP80B01495R000600180013-6

USE OF 5 PARTS

Classified material for delivery to other agencies, or bureaus outside of Main Commerce, generally will be handled by more than one person prior to final delivery to the addressee. The 5-part form provides receipt copies for several intermediate deliveries.

Part 5 - To be signed by person receiving material from the sender. The sender should retain this copy as evidence of release of the material to be delivered.

Part 4 - To be signed by the person receiving the material from the sender's messenger. The sender's messenger should retain this copy as receipt of the material by that person.

Part 3 - May be used as control copies for further and 2 handling of delivery within other agencies, or bureaus outside of Main Commerce, as required.

Note - Emphasis is placed on the primary responsibility of the addressee to return the original signed copy of the receipt to the sender. However, where a signed receipt has not been received by the sender within a reasonable period of time, the sender has the responsibility to assure that the material has been received by the addressee. If the material has not been received by the addressee, the sender should notify the security officer of his primary organization unit who in turn shall investigate the non-delivery of this material.

Part 1 - (Original) - To be signed by the addressee, or his authorized representative, after checking the documents received against those listed on the receipt. This copy must be returned to the sender by the addressee or his representative. It may be handed personally to the sender's representative, or returned through the mail or messenger service in an addressed sealed envelope. *

USE OF 3 PARTS

Classified material within the Main Commerce building is generally delivered directly to the office of the addressee with no intermediate delivery points requiring receipt copies.

Use Parts 5, 4, and 1 in accordance with instructions for those parts.

Parts 3 and 2 may be destroyed.
